

A land of contrasts for your consideration sculpture proposal #1

A travel through Oregon country offers many adventures. Around a corner or through a canyon the landscape unfolds before you.

An elk sculpture stands before a landscape where an opening leads to another eastern Oregon landscape with 3 antelope running as if they passed through the rocks behind them.

The life-size animal sculptures are to be cast bronze
The total size of the sculpture with landscaping sits inside of the 50' radius
The sculpture will be engineered as well as the rock elements and foundations prepared for installation.

Contrasting rock and landscape backgrounds are important components to create a contrast of East and West.
